5pm - 6pm SIG - Virtual Reality

Calendar: 3D-Con 2021 Events

Created by: Dave Comeau

Description:

Virtual Reality SIG (Jim Harp and Dave Comeau) Wouldn't it be something if six million high resolution digital stereoscopes capable of displaying almost any form of 3D image, video or computer model ended up in the hands of consumers worldwide? The growing popularity of Virtual Reality headsets such as the Oculus Quest and the Valve Index have created amazing opportunities for all of us. This Special Interest Group will have something for everyone, from the complete novice to the experienced VR enthusiast. We'll start with a discussion of relevant Virtual Reality products, platforms and applications and then explore some 3D galleries and VR environments of particular interest to 3D photographers in AltSpace. This will all be simulcast on Zoom, so you don't need a headset to participate. If you have any questions you'd like us to cover, or would like to participate, please send a message in the Zoom chat. 9:30am - 10am Workshop - Jim Harp - Creating Stereoscopic Galleries in VR

Created by: Dave Comeau

Description:

Virtual Reality headsets such as the OculusQuest have put high quality digital stereo viewers into the hands of millions of potential new fans of your 3D work. This workshop will demonstrate how to use the Unity platform to present Stereoscopic and immersive photography and artwork in VR platforms such as Altspace VR, or in dedicated apps. While this is too complex to thoroughly cover in 30 minutes, the tools and techniques required will be demonstrated, and templates and links for further study will be provided. 12pm - 12:30pm Workshop - Dave Comeau - Stereo Imagery on the Looking Glass

Created by: Dave Comeau

Description:

A new, affordable light field display allows us to easily create, essentially, digital lenticular images in our own homes. We'll discuss how to bring stereoscopic content into the Looking Glass Factory's Looking Glass Portrait. We'll quickly cover how to use software provided by the company, and look at other free tools such as many options in StereoPhoto Maker and Masuji Suto's web tools. We'll also discuss how to create stereo videos using the series photographs taken for use in the Looking Glass. You do not need to own a Looking Glass to attend; many of the techniques and concepts discussed can be used for creation of traditional lenticular images or stereo pairs. Event link For more information on Workshops, visit <https://www.3d-con.com/workshops.php>

12:30pm - 1pm Workshop - Greg Perez - 3D Moviemaking with Magix

10:30am - 11:30am SIG - Medium Format 3D

Calendar: 3D-Con 2021 Events

Created by: nsatheater@gmail.com

Description:

Medium Format Film 3D SIG (Steven Lederman and Ian Andvaag) Are you interested in immersive, ultra-realistic stereo photography? We'll provide a brief introduction to the wonderful world of medium format stereo imagery (MF3D) and we'll showcase some weird and wonderful cameras and viewers. Participants are encouraged to bring their equipment to show off in the open discussion format of the second half. All are welcome - those who are curious about the format, and those who have been shooting for decades. Unfortunately, we aren't able to exhibit actual MF3D slides in person this year, but this is a great opportunity to meet some MF3D-ers and learn some tips from each other. Event link

12pm - 12:30pm Workshop - Gordon Au - Artificial Intelligence and 3D

Calendar: 3D-Con 2021 Events

Created by: nsatheater@gmail.com

Description:

Many modern developments in AI deal with the 3rd dimension, from self-driving cars that perceive and navigate their environments in 3D, to programs that can build 3D models of scenes simply by analyzing 2D videos of them. Though some of these AIs are only accessible to researchers and tech companies, some AI applications like upscaling images or colorizing black and white photos are immediately useful and available to all. This workshop will show you how to use AIs of special interest to stereographers, via the free tool Google Colab, to do things like: create depth maps and stereopairs from single images, change the depth of stereopairs, and create videos and stereovideos.
